INTERURBAN KILLS WOMAN AT VERSAILLES

Mrs. Annie Klett, of Dayton, Ky., fatally injured and her son, William, cut and bruised—Automobile wheels catch in car track.

Versailles, Ky., Dec. 27.—Mrs. Annie Klett, 63 years old, of Dayton, Ky., was fatally injured today when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, William Klett, a machinist, and son, William, Jr., was accidentally struck by the incoming 11:35 o'clock interurban car from Lexington to Frankfort directly in front of the Stevenson home on Lexington street.

Mrs. Klett died soon after she reached the Woodford Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Klett, who was sitting on the rear seat of the touring car with her husband, the son, William, driving, was thrown onto the front seat.

The younger Klett was hurt through the windshield, suffering cuts and bruises. The automobile was demolished. Young Klett said the wheel of his car caught in the car track and he was attempting to pull out when the interurban, driven by Motorman Albert H. Haggard, of 704 North Limestone street, Lexington, came along. Frantic efforts by Mr. Haggard could not stop the interurban.

The accident occurred almost directly opposite the colonial home of Douglas Stevenson, the actor. The Kletts were returning to their home in Dayton from several days' visit in Louisville, expecting to reach Dayton this afternoon.

Besides her husband and son, Mrs. Klett is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Pearl Reitmeyer, of Dayton. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of D. R. Duell and will be taken to Dayton this afternoon.

NEW BURLEY SEED TO BE DISTRIBUTED TO KY. GROWERS

Root-Rot Resistant Strain of Burley Developed by Experiment Station to Be Distributed Among Kentucky Tobacco Growers.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 28.—Fifty farmers in every county of the Kentucky burley tobacco district having a county farm agent will have a chance this year to get a start of the new strain of root-rot-resistant tobacco developed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, according to the method for the free distribution of seed from this strain which has just been announced by Ralph Kenney, crops extension specialist of the College of Agriculture.

Fifty lots of the seed, each containing one level teaspoonful will be sent to every county agent in the burley district soon after the first of the year, each of these agents in turn distributing the seed to the first 50 farmers in their county that apply for it. Distribution of the seed is being done through county agents since experience has shown that the majority of requests for it in the last year or so have come from this source. A small supply of seed for 1923 plantings will be left at the station to fill any requests that may be received from growers in counties not having county farm agents.

Counties in which seed will be distributed by county agents include Mercer, Boone, Kenton, Campbell, Carroll, Grant, Trimble, Mason, Oldham, Jefferson, Breckinridge, Meade, Nelson, Letcher, Hart, Barren, Grayson, Taylor, Marion, Washington, Boyle and Fayette.

Development of the root-rot-resistant strain of burley by the station workers has now reached the stage where the new type of leaf bids fair to be a means of checking the heavy annual losses which growers of burley tobacco suffer from the ravages of root-rot, said to be the most destructive tobacco disease known.

Distribution of the seed from the new strain to farmers of the state was started last year with the sending out of 300 lots of it. Practically all farmers who grew the resistant burley last year have saved from 10 to 40 seed heads from their crop and in addition have passed some of the seed from the new strain along to their neighbors with the result that close to 1,000 burley growers are expected to plant half or more of their 1923 crop with seed from the root-rot-resistant strain.

KEMP BALL HELD IN SEIZURE OF BIG BREWERY

Mayville Man Taken in Charge Here Wednesday—Rented Building in Lexington Where Illicit Brewery Was Found By Agents.

Kemp Ball was arrested here Wednesday afternoon at his home in Lexington street by Federal Prohibition Agent Harry A. Ott, upon request of prohibition authorities at Lexington and was taken Thursday morning to Lexington by that officer.

Ball is charged with being one of the men concerned in the operation of a giant illegal brewing plant in Lexington seized Wednesday by prohibition agents.

Ball, it is charged, rented this building, at the head of an alley at 134 and 136 South Limestone, in which the brewery, said to be the largest ever seized in the state, was found.

The plant, which was within two blocks of Main street, had a daily output of about 375 bottles. Approximately 900 bottles of the malt beverage were seized and destroyed by the agents, besides numerous containers and machinery.

Two negro men, who gave their names as Joshua Miles and Joshua Allen, were operating the plant when the officers entered a sliding door, opening on an alley, which was the only means of ingress and egress. They were placed in jail and later were released on bonds of $1,000 each to appear at 11 o'clock Thursday before United States Commissioner Charles N. Wiard.

A further search of the neighborhood of the plant revealed six barrels of beer in the upper rooms of the Lexington garage, adjoining, and which, according to the agents, had contained moonshine whisky. George B. Shely, proprietor of the garage, told the prohibition agents that the rooms had been sublet to William Keith.

The brewing plant building, said to have been rented by Ball, contained several boxes of malt extract and hops which bore markings showing that they had been shipped from Cincinnati to Ball at 111 South Limestone street, a soft drink stand.

The two negroes said that they had been working at the place but a short time, but believed that the place had been in operation about three months. They said that they had been hired by a white man, but claimed that they did not know his name.

BOLD HOLD-UP REPORTED MAY HAVE BEEN PRANK

Coat and Vest Taken From Young Man Near Limestone Bridge Wednesday Evening—Police Investigate.

At about 9 o'clock Wednesday evening four men each with a handkerchief over the lower half of his face stepped out in front of Frank McCarthy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCarthy, of East Second street, at the recently erected tool houses on Bridge street near the west entrance to Limestone bridge, and demanded money.

The young man who was on his way home, told them that he had very little money and they stripped him of his coat and vest returning to him some letters and other papers found in the inside coat pocket.

Young McCarthy, who recently returned from the U. S. Army, said that the men had revolvers in their hands and stopped him by saying, "Hold on there. Got any money?"

The matter was reported to the police who investigated. The police believe that the hold-up might have been a prank of young McCarthy's friends and he is now also of that opinion.

JACOB WEIMER'S BODY IS FOUND ON OHIO RIVER SHORE

Brown County Farmer Living on Ripley-Aberdeen Road Who Disappeared Very Mysteriously Thursday Found Floating in River.

On last Thursday evening Mr. Jacob Weimer, well known farmer living on the Aberdeen-Ripley road some distance below Aberdeen, went to Ripley to see a physician. When he did not return home at about midnight, his family became worried and a son drove to Ripley. The physician reported that Mr. Weimer had been to his office early in the evening and had been given some medicine. A strict search of the whole of the town of Ripley was made but no trace of the missing man could be found.

The search widened throughout the week and members of the family were in Mayville several days ago running down clues.

On Saturday Andy Preston, a fisherman who lives on the Ohio Banks near Levan and who was hunting along the shore, noticed a pair of shoes out of the water along the shore near Taylor's Light. He investigated and drew Mr. Weimer's body from the river. When he disappeared Mr. Weimer wore a heavy overcoat but there was no overcoat upon the found body.

It is supposed that the dead man either deliberately committed suicide or fell from the Ripley ferry or a coal digger that was anchored nearby.

The funeral was held at Fitch's Chapel, near Aberdeen Sunday with services by Rev. Fred Riley, pastor of the Aberdeen M. E. church. Mr. Weimer was 72 years of age and a native of Germany.
